Parking along Eel Pond:

Tickets are not deterring most cars, vans and RV from parking in NO PARKING zones. I was not around this weekend as I was at my son's wedding in CT. Below are a few photos I took on Sunday when I returned from the wedding. Notice on the last photo there are people having to walk around the vehicles and the oncoming cars having to move into the cars traveling south on Rt 1A. There were 8 vehicles parked along Eel Pond. The two RVs are from Canada. All 8 vehicles were ticketed but it does not seem to stop people from parking illegally. The Rye Beach Committee has suggested towing or at least booting vehicles. We say, "tow one and the word would get out".

I also noticed a truck parking about 10 feet from the fire hydrant on Perkins Road. I was not able to get of photo of this truck because by the time I went home to get my camera the truck was gone. This truck was not ticketed.
